Product Description

Inductive sensor NBN4-12GM40-Z0

"Your automation, our passion"—Pepperl+Fuchs' company claim is also our promise to our customers: that we are committed and passionate about developing solutions and products that optimally support their automation challenges. A spirit of research, entrepreneurial vision, and a belief in their own abilities—in 1945, founding fathers Walter Pepperl and Ludwig Fuchs laid the foundations for a success story in a small radio workshop in Mannheim that continues to this day. A look at 80-year history of Pepperl+Fuchs reveals many milestones, including the invention of the inductive proximity sensor in 1958, which not only demonstrates the company's consistently high level of innovation. It also reflects a fundamental attitude that has been the most important pillar of this success story from the very beginning: working in partnership with our customers, working together as equals.

The NBN4-12GM40-Z0 is a compact inductive proximity sensor designed for non-contact detection of metal objects. With a typical sensing range of 2mm and a 4mm cylindrical housing, it operates on DC 10-30V and provides a digital output (likely NPN or PNP, depending on configuration). It features IP67 protection for durability in industrial environments, making it suitable for applications like position sensing, object counting, and automation systems. The "Z0" suffix may indicate its output type (e.g., normally open/closed). For exact specs, refer to the manufacturer's datasheet (e.g., Pepperl+Fuchs if applicable).
